The Northeast Climate Science Center’s seminar series:

Engaging Stakeholders in Climate Adaptation

Fall 2017 Seminars

134 Morrill Science Center
Join Remotely: necsc.umass.edu

* October 4, 3:30 pm
  Michael Notaro, University of Wisconsin-Madison with Christopher Hoving, Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Michael Schummer, SUNY at Oswego
  Wildlife Implications of Changing Winter Severity in the Great Lakes Basin: Collaborative Investigation to Guide Regional Adaptation Planning

* November 8, 3:30 pm
  Bethany Bradley, UMass Amherst
  Implications of climate change for invasive species

* November 29, 3:30 pm
  Joshua Rapp, UMass Amherst with
  Selena Ahmed, Montana State University
  What are the impacts of climate change on maple syrup production and can we manage for them?

* December 6, 3:30 pm
  Anthony D’Amato, University of Vermont and NE CSC PI
  Engaging managers in forest adaptation science and application in the northern forest region

All are welcome.
For more information go to: necsc.umass.edu